Rhode Island Democratic State Convention Unanimous in Choice of Standardbearer.

TICKET

BY ACCLAMATION

Pledges Roosevelt Support of Party in An Honest Reduction of the Present Tariff.

(By Associated Press.)

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Octoebr 12.—Former Governor L. F. C. Carvin was today nominated for Governor by acclamation by the Democratic State Convention. The remainder of the teket also was nominated by acclamation.

The platform declare that "as New Englanders, we protest against the subservience of her interests by her Republican representatives in both houses of Congress to the demands of the Middle West, and we join the Democrats of Massachusetts in demanding freer trade for our natural markets of sale and purchase across the Canadian border."

It pledges the support of the Democrats of Rhode Island to any measure President Rosevelt may recommend "for an honest reduction of the Lariff, with the sincere hope that he will take counsel of the people and not of official advisers, who, under the guise of United States Senators, represent the selfish greed of the few, and counsel delayi".

The President is congratulated for his recommendation of legislation "for the control of the railroads of the country originally introduced into Congress by Demerate Representatives and advocated in Democratic platforms."

nicipal Ownership League.

NEW YORK, October 12.—William Randolph Hearst was nominated for Mayor of New York to-night at a convention of the Municipal Ownership League and allied organizations, held in Carnegie Hall. The convention was a popular one, the public generally being invited. The accommodations of the big hall were taxed to the limit, and the crowd outside of the building was estimated at several thousand.

building was estimated at several thousand.

Mr. Hearst was tendered the nomination several days ago by the committee of seventeen of the Municipal Ownership League, and accepted, to-night's action being in the nature of a ratification.

There were a number of informal speeches during the meeting, in all of which the present city administration and the candidates on the Democratic ticket were sharply attacked.

The platform demands "the immediate establishment and operation by the city of a plant for the sale and distribution of gas to all citizens at half the price now charged; the construction of subways by the city, and their operation by the city, and, in connection with subways, the construction of adequate pipe galleries, which shall remain the property of the city; an extension of the system of direct employment of labor by the city on public works at the prevailing rate of wages for an eight-hour day."

Our friends, the lawyers, do not maintain bar associations to protect themselves against wrongdoers, but to elevate the standards of their profession and compel its members to observe their obligations to clients and their duties to the courts. And so the members of the American Bankers' Association must not consider the sole advantage of membership in it to lie in such protection as it may afford against the criminal classes. The standing committees on Uniform Laws, Currency Legislation, Bankers' Money Orders, and Education, as well as the Protective Committee, do work of pecuniary value to the members of the association.

The work of the American banker is extending farther and farther every day, and becoming more and more of public importance, as the restoads bring all parts of the country closer and closer to gether, and our flag rises here and there in far-away countries; and each day the need of the American bunker for a better knowledge of distant people and more accurate information as to their ways and commercial needs, and the routes of commerce and its laws, increases; and membership in the American Bankers' Association will afford a means by which many of these needs can be easily acquired, for its members include many who know most about those things and are doing successfully the banking business of this country; and to whom else could one turn with more likelihood of receiving valuable aid in these matters?

For these reasons, and because the honorable and important business of banking in the United States should continue to be fittingly represented among the commercial bodies of the world, let us maintain the character and importance of the American Bankers' Association, as evidenced by its origin, its history and the character and importance of the honorable and importance of the American Bankers' Association, as evidenced by its origin, its history and the character and importance of the honorable and importance of the American Bankers' Association, as evidenced by its origin, its history and the character and importance of the honorable and importance of

Pole Baker

Pole Baker will be remembered as a humorous character in Will N. Harben's former novels, A shrewd, wayward, shirt-sleeves philosopher, in this new story he occupies the centre of the stage, with some capital yarns to tell and a genius for meddling in other people's affairs to their own ultimate good. Without him the romance of the young lovers would not have ended so happily. The characters and scenes are again those of Georgia, as in 'Abner Daniel" and "The Georgians," and the same good humored, delightful narrative winds leisurely through this story as in its popular predecessors.
